your baby club

HOSPITAL CHECKLIST

For Mom - Labor & Delivery	For Baby
Maternity notes	Sleeping gown
Lightweight dressing gown	Cloths & bibs
Music & essential oils	Socks, scratch mittens & booties
Slippers, socks, sandals	■ Blanket/ swaddle
Lip balm	Diapers & Diaper bag
Massage oil/body lotion	Wet bag for dirty clothes
Water spray & sponge or fan	Wipes
Own pillow(s)	Onesies
Books/magazines/movies on tablet	Going home outfit
Electronics & Chargers	Hats
Spare clothes & underwear	Ready-made formula bottles (if bottle feeding)
For Mom - After Delivery	Any colostrum you may have harvested (in a cool bag with ice packs)
Nightdress or oversized t-shirt & comfy pants	Car seat/ carrier
Maternity pads
Nursing bra & breast pads	For Your Birthing Partner
Toiletries including toothbrush & toothpaste	Snacks & water
☐ Glasses/ contact lenses	Phone/ camera/ video camera
Phone & charger	Chargers
Snacks & drinks	Spare clothes & underwear
Comfy clothes to wear home &	Toiletries including toothbrush shoes	Small pillow
	Entertainment

Top Tips For Packing Your Bag

- Once you've got these essentials together, make sure to choose a bag that isn't too bulky, but allows easy access without having to dig around trying to find diaper rash cream or a clean pair of underwear you'd rolled up in the bottom
- A great tip would be to group things in little ziploc bags, or organizers, keeping all your toiletries in a separate toiletry bag to things for baby, your clothes separate from baby's, as well as a spare bag for any dirties ready for the wash when you get home
- Remember to label each bag too, so your partner or midwife can help you with getting things

Cash (for vending machines/ on-site

You could also pack an extra bag of another day's worth of clothes for you, your partner and your baby and leave it in the car just in case you need to stay a little longer than expected. This will save your partner needing to drive home and back again, particularly if you don't live that close to where you're giving birth